

PADI MASTER SCUBA DIVER

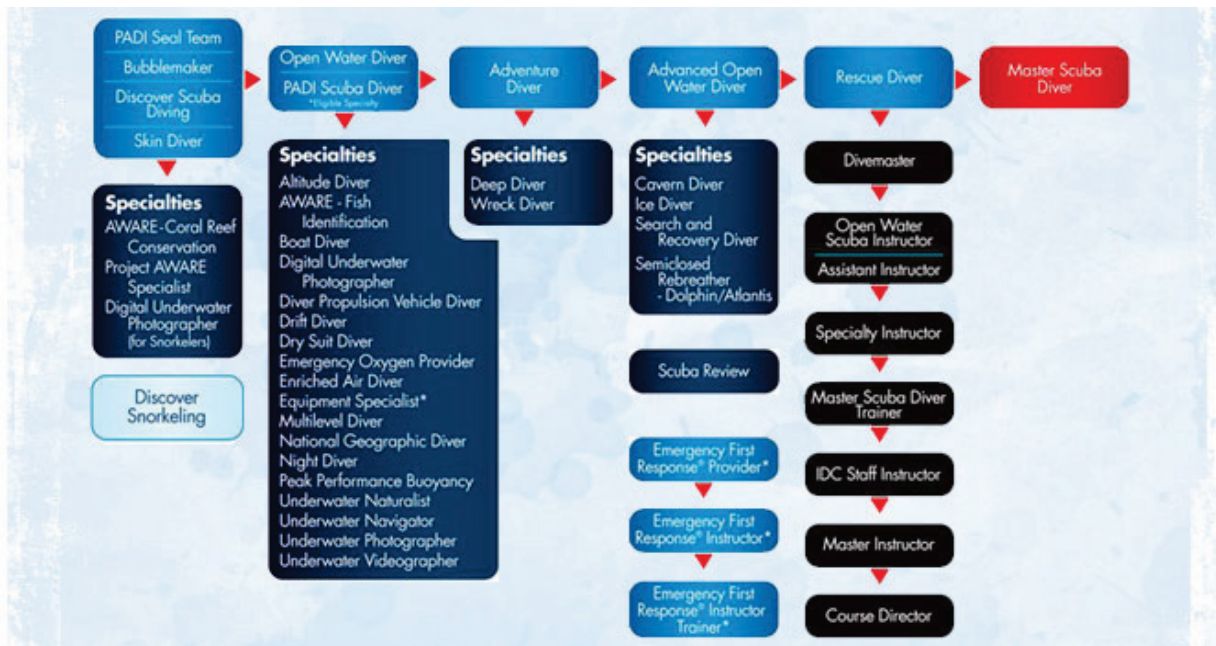

Start working towards your ultimate scuba goal today

Getting certified as an open water diver is just the beginning. You're now on your way to earning the title of PADI Master Scuba Diver, the highest non-professional rating in recreational scuba diving, and the rank to which all divers aspire.

Holding the title of Master Scuba Diver earns the respect of divers and non-divers alike as it means that you've worked hard to become a safe and experienced diver that anyone would be happy to dive with.

How do you get there? You've already started!

You simply need to complete your PADI Open Water, PADI Advanced Open Water and PADI Rescue Diver courses, add 5 PADI specialties and log at least 50 dives. Don't forget, all of the dives you complete in courses count and there's no time limit for completing these steps. You can opt to complete all of your courses in one season, or spread them out over the years. You can even keep learning over the winter with some of our classroom sessions such as Nitrox.

Some of the fun specialties you can take include: Deep, Wreck, Drift, Night, Dry Suit, Digital Underwater Photographer, Enriched Air (Nitrox), Search & Recovery, Equipment Specialist, & more.
